Custom 10 oz. Mesh Banners Material

Custom Mesh Banners are made of PVC plastic with 50% of the surface covered in small holes. The plastic used is the material allow the air and the wind to flow through the banner, which reduces the chance of it tearing. These banners are typically only used outdoors. Their lifespan is supposed to be a lot longer than fabric banners, but they are not as durable as vinyl banners. Because they have 50% of the surface of the banner consists of microscopic holes, they are not as susceptible to the wind. This means that the design is not going to be too strong. Another thing to consider is that the holes in the banner are small. Heavy rain or extreme cold will make the material brittle and could cause it to tear. Overall, custom mesh banners are a good choice for outdoor events that are not expected to last for a long time. Mesh banners are a great choice for outdoor advertising because they are durable and can withstand the elements. However, you should be aware of their limitations, such as their susceptibility to wind damage and lack of color vibrancy, before you use them for your next project.

Hem

Before placing your order, it's a good idea to view and decide on the following finishing's options: Pole Hems and Reinforcements

Hems

Vinyl banners are one of the strongest and most durable types of printed materials for outdoor events. Welded hems are created by folding over one inch of the banner material and heating it with a welding tool to create a strong seal. Welded hems are typically used to reinforce the sides of the banner and prevent stretching. Additionally, welded hems help to maintain the shape of the banner and prevent it from curling or warping. At Custom Banner, we offer free hems on all our banners to ensure that our customers receive the highest quality product possible.

Grommets

Grommets are small metal rings that are used to provide reinforcement and support to the edges of vinyl banners. In the context of vinyl signs, grommets are usually placed around the perimeter of the banner and serve as attachment points for hanging or attaching the sign. This helps to distribute the weight of the sign evenly and prevents tearing. In addition, grommets can also be used to reinforce the sides of vinyl banners, helping to maintain the banner's shape and prevent it from curling or warping. Overall, grommets are an important tool in ensuring that vinyl signs are strong and durable.

POLE POCKETS

Pole Pockets are a handy addition to any banner. They allow you to hang your banner on a broomstick along the edges of the banner, which prevents sagging and provides a more even surface for displaying your message. Pole pockets can also be used to make banners more rigid. This can be particularly useful if the banner will be exposed to wind or other forces that could cause it to move around. Pole pockets are a simple way to ensure that your banner hangs straight and looks its best.

WIND HOLES
